A black and white photograph of a multi-story brick building. The upper floor features several arched windows. Two of these windows have the word 'SOLD' written vertically in large, stylized letters. A central window is dark with a small white rectangular object on it. Below the brick section is a dark, horizontal band, possibly a decorative cornice or a sign. The ground floor has large glass windows, some of which are covered with plywood. A small, bare tree stands in front of the building. In the foreground, two cars are blurred, suggesting motion. The overall scene is urban and somewhat gritty.
